This year's judge was Kaveh Mojtabai, founder and publisher of Artscope magazine, a media company located in Quincy MA. Kaveh's company is dedicated to reviewing art exhibits, covering cultural events, connecting artists with their audience, and creating access to the arts. Kaveh manages a team of editors, writers, graphic designers, web developers, technology experts and advertising account executives to publish Artscope in its print, email, online, social media, mobile and digital edition formats to the industry and the public. In addition to his work in media industry, Kaveh has worked on projects like co-curating the "A Politic" exhibit that showcased the Abraham Obama billboard and recently juried at the Copley Society and Galatea Fine Arts in Boston. In addition, Kaveh has appeared on various "Money Matters" and entrepreneurial business radio networks where he explained how Artscope's business model supports connections between artists, collectors and the public.
