Special circumstances are defined as unexpected events or situations beyond your control. Examples include loss of employment, reduction in work hours, loss of benefits such as Social Security or child support, long-term illness or disability, unusually high medical expenses, or the death of a spouse or dependent student's custodial parent after filing the FAFSA.

We cannot consider appeals based on credit card debt, car or mortgage payments, wedding/celebration expenses, consumer debt, private school costs, vacations or other non-discretionary expenses.

In addition to completing this form and providing all required supporting documentation, all appeals must include the following:

- 1) A typed (or neatly hand-written) signed statement explaining your special circumstances.
- 2) If not previously submitted:
 - a. Completed Dependent Verification Worksheet if you were required to provide parent information on the FAFSA, including the required 2017 federal tax returns or 2017 IRS transcripts and W-2(s) for both you and your parent(s), if applicable, OR

- 3) Completed Sections A & B of this appeal.
- 4) Appeals submitted after 12/31/19 must include copies of all 2019 W-2 forms as well as 2019 federal tax returns. If you submit an appeal prior to 12/31/19, and it is approved, you may be required to provide 2019 federal tax returns before your Spring aid is disbursed.
